ANDERSON, ADMINISTRATRIX, v. SMITH.

ERROR TO THE COURT OF APPEALS OF THE DISTRICT OF COLUMBIA.

No. 91. Argued December 17, 1912.—Decided January 6, 1913.

The evidence in this case not showing that the injury suffered by the servant was caused by failure of the master to provide a safe place or proper appliances, the trial court rightly took the case from the jury, and directed a verdict for defendant.

35 App. D. C. 93, affirmed.

THE facts are stated in the opinion.

Mr. Leonard J. Mather, with whom Mr. John Doyle Carmody, was on the brief, for plaintiff in error.
